

Abstract

In the last years, mobile phones have evolved to devices with highresolution cameras and Internet connection. In this context, the idea of applying OCR techniques to the pictures taken with these devices rises. As result of this idea, we have built mOCRa, the application presented in this work.

Keywords: Optical character recognition, mobile application, Android

