FICC 2013

The Future Implications of Climatic Changes

1-3 April, 2013 * Fayoum University, Egypt

Fayoum University (Egypt) (Previously Cairo University / Fayoum Campus) and the Association of Egyptian American Scholars (North America) are pleased to announce the organization of the 1st International Conference on

“The Future Implications of Climatic Changes – FICC - 2013”

The conference will take place at Fayoum University Campus, nearly 100 Km south west of Cairo

There is an ever increasing concern about the implications of the climatic changes on the global future and life, and hence there is a growing need for researchers, scientists, environmentalists, practitioners, academics, decision makers, volunteers, students and other stakeholders (non-profit and non-governmental organizations' professionals) to meet and discuss the existing challenges. The worldwide participants will enjoy the 3 day conference during which there will be both lecture and poster sessions in addition to keynote speeches to be delivered by internationally distinguished experts. As a result of this conference, it is hoped that different participants will set up joint projects to work together

The submitted papers may be conceptual, empirical, theoretical or experimental in nature. Prospective authors are invited to submit papers on the future implications of climatic changes from the following perspective

Marine, coastal ecosystems, vulnerable areas, sea levels and deltas
Desertification
Food security
Educational curricula
International, regional and national policies
Socio-economic issues
Tourism, heritage, media and communication

Biodiversity and human
Water shortage, rivers, basins and dams
Green and renewable energy
