Preamble

Benha University is an example of a truly distinguished transformative history from being a branch of Zagazig University since 1976, to its emergence as an independent university in 2005. It began with only five faculties (Agriculture– Engineering– commerce, medicine and education). However, Benha University has grown and developed to include 15 faculties in different fields of specializations.

Benha University from its inception has targeted excellence in education, research and community service as its primacy. Benha university has experienced during the last three years a trajectory of growth with more than students, over 4,000 faculty members and over degree programs in fields for professional undergraduate and graduate students from Egypt, the region, and around the world. Benha university's students and staff have excelled and become leaders in many different areas of endeavor at local, national and international levels. This creativity and productivity of its members have enhanced its status nationally and internationally. This enhanced status is reflected in its world rankings. In Webometrics Ranking of World Universities, Benha University achieved good ranking.

Since the Faculty of Agriculture in Benha University, founded in 1911, is considered as one of the oldest faculties of agriculture at Egypt; we enter our second century longing for improving our standing nationally and internationally. Benha University will continue to internationalize its academic activities and establish international partnerships.

Looking for being considered as a leader in higher education in the region, Benha University has sought national accreditation. Four faculties have already received accreditation from Egypt's National Authority for Quality Assurance and Accreditation in Education (NAQAAE) at the institutional level: Faculties of Medicine, veterinary Medicine, Nursing and Engineering at Shoubra.. Moreover, about 6 more faculties are on their way to received national accreditation.

As one of its distinctive characteristics, Benha University includes some service units such as the General Administration of Students Care, three university cities for male students in Benha, Mochtohor, and Shubra, in addition to two university cities for female students in Benha and Shoubra as well as 36 centers and units that serve the university and the community. Some of these excellence centers are Bio-technology center, Nano-technology center, and entrepreneurship development center.

The success we have achieved today is the result of our previous Strategic Plans. That is why our new Strategic Plan 2016–2022 is of a high primacy of our future aspirations. Our 2012–2016 Strategic Plan sets the overarching goals for Benha University. This plan provides flexible framework to assist University's decision makers on how to support University strengths, meet upcoming challenges and embrace emerging opportunities to continue its development as a leading Institution in Egypt and the world. The plan aimed at establishing our institutional priorities and enabling us to make wise resource-allocations. It identifies eight major goals and outlines several supporting initiatives that will promote innovation and creativity in education, research, community service, and internationalization. It also addresses the University vision, mission, core values and broad goals and strategies to achieve significant progress toward our aspiration of becoming one of the nation's leading universities.

Vision

Vision aims to make Benha University as a leading example for Egypt's universities in education, scientific research, social and university life, and reaching to international competition in some fields.

Mission

Benha University would have a role in developing the community by providing a stimulating environment for education and scientific research as well as providing distinguished educational service. It will fulfill its role by increasing the partnership with the local and regional community as well as international agencies in a flexible framework allowing for continuous improvement and maintaining the values and ethics of community to keep up with the scientific and technological development.
