

Abstract

This study is divided into four chapters with an introduction, a critical presentation about the most important sources of the research, preface, appendixes, a conclusion and a bibliography.

- The first chapter is entitled " The Eastern policy of pope Clement VI towards Greek Archipelago " it studies how the pope made crusading league to overcome and defeat growing , increasing Turcoman threat , the crusade of Humbert II de Viennois and the causes of its failure and its results .

- The second chapter is entitled " Clement VI and the Byzantine empire " , it studies relations between Clement VI and Byzantines before Ascension of John Cantacuzene to imperial throne , then after his Ascension, what Motivated Cantacuzene to seek political and religious alliance with pope Clement VI , Mutual Correspondences between the two , reaction and position of Cantacuzene towards theological disputes in his state and Clement VI's reaction towards Cantacuzene 's suggestions and how the unity project between the two churches failed.

- The third chapter is entitled " Clement VI 's relations with hospitalliers , Cyprians and the Armenians " , it studies the ending of the crusading league , the relations between Clement VI and hospitalliers and how the pope depended on them mainly to provide league ships with necessary needs beside Venetians , also we study the pope relations with Cyprus and the kingdom of Lesser Armenia and we discuss how the pope aimed at entering Armenians to unity with catholic church so there were mutual several embassies and correspondences between the two parties without any benefit .

- The fourth and last chapter is entitled "Clement VI's relations with Mamluks Bahria, Turcoman, Achaea, Serbia and Mongols".

Finally I'd like to thank deeply my supervisor Prof. Dr. Fayez N. Iskander, my supervisor Prof.Dr. Wadei F. Abd Alla.

I'd like to thank my Prof.Dr. Osama Zaki Zeid, my prof.Dr. Hamed Zaian Ghanem on their discussion to me.

I'd like to thank my friend, prof.Dr. Abd El- Aziz Ramadan who provided me with many specialized papers and books.

At last , I can't forget to thank my family , parents , wife , daughter Anne , sisters , and any friends that helped me .