Abstract of the study

*Introduction of the study:

Youth is the mirror of what happens in the society in all political, economical and social fields. There for, all youth's problems and troubles results in the changes which take place in their society. This study show the youth's points of view towards some social in Egypt.

*Important of the study:

The study show youth's cases which leads to the emotional stability.

* Objectives of the study:

The study aims to recognize how the under-graduates think, and what is their culture and status in their Egyptian society under the shadow of the new social and economic conversions that their country witnesses recently. This can be done by discussing some of the important and vital recent cases.

The study also focuses on examining some of the resulting social and economic changes and how the youth regard them in addition to the negative and the positive aspects accompanying such changes.

*Methodology of the study:

I used to the discribitional and analyzing system as well as the questioning forms in order to collect the field material. The study contains eighty(80) questions, which are symbols of university youth society in Benha university.

I questioned nearly 300 students in four faculties in Benha university. They are: the Faculty of Arts, The Faculty of Commerce, The Faculty of Medicine, and The Faculty of Engineering in Shobra. This study took me three months. It started in September 2011, till November 2011.

I depended in my study on the countable measurements to find out the relations among the changes of the study.

*Results of the study:

1- This study shows that youth faces many troubles with their families members. These troubles result in the daily system of life as well as the way of spending their spare time and none of family make them participate in the family matters.

2-The family helps the university youth to form good relations with others. The family also fulfills the youth's needs as well as forms their personality, virtues and behaviors. Friends also affect the university student's personality and behaviours.

3-Globalization is the cultural invasion which came from the west. It is a cultural exchange between all countries which became a tiny village, because of the technology revolution.

4- Globalization results in decreasing morality and religion. It made the youth mistrust the government and fall in despair.

5- Youth doesn't tend to violence if they criticize the government and the society, but they will take the legal steps, and they will vote in the elections.

6- The universal progress. It doesn't provide students with the renewal chances. It doesn't make them gain any new talents.

7- The university certificates aren't suitable for job's market. Individuals, as well as, product's sectors doesn't trust the university education. Job's market can't fulfill what the youth eager to.

8- The modern means of communication have too much effect on the youth, because they are eager to any cultural changes, as well as, They have cultural flexibility to all virtues which they gained from the society.

9- Using mobile and shating on the internet affect on the university youth's culture, because follow the data and communication revolution.

10- University students care for photo culture, but they don't care for audio culture or press. That results in the desire to eat western and American foods.

11- 73% of the university students aren't convinced of political participation because of: The political participation establishments are weak as well as the youth has low democratic culture. The youth doesn't trust both election and the political work.

12- University student's opinion about 25Jan. 2011 revolution is:

- It will achieve justice, freedom and democracy.
- It will improve all the political and sociable matters.

- It will end spoil and will solve all the people's troubles and problems.

13- After the 25 January2011 revolution, youth hopes to be represented in the people's council in order to participate in solving the society's problem, and to change all bad mattes into better ones.
