

CONTENTS

|                                                                                                                 | Page          |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------|
| 1-INTRODUCTION.....                                                                                      | 1      |
| 1.1. Chemistry of Azo Dyes.....                                                                          | 1      |
| 1.2.Literature Survey on Absorption Spectra of Azo        Compounds.....                            | 2      |
| 1.3.Literature Survey on Studies of the Metal Chelates        of Azo Compounds.....                 | 8      |
| 1.4.Literature Survey on Polarographic and Cyclic        Voltammetric Studies of Azo Compounds..... | 21     |
| 2. EXPERIMENTAL.....                                                                                 | 41 |
| 2.1. Preparation of the Azo Dye Compounds.....                                                           | 41     |
| 2.1.1. Preparation of the mono-azo dye compounds....                                                     | 41     |
| 2.2.Preparation of the bis-azo dyes compounds                                                            | 42     |
| 2.3. Preparation of solutions... ..                                                                      | 44     |
| 2.4. Studies on the solid complexes.....                                                                 | 44     |
| 2.5. Apparatus and working procedure... ..                                                               | 46     |
| 2.6.DC-Polarographyic measurements... ..                                                                 | 48     |
| 2.7.Cyclic voltammetric measurements.....                                                                | 49     |
| 2.8.Coulometry measurements.....                                                                         | 49     |
| 3.RESULTS AND DISCUSSION.....                                                                        | 50 |
| 3.1.Studies on the Organic Azo Compounds.....                                                            | 50     |
| A-Electronic absorption spectra in organic solvents... ..                                                | 50     |

|                                                                                                                                                                        |     |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| a- Electronic absorption spectra of mono azo and bisazo compounds based on 2,7-dihydroxy naphthalene nucleus (I <sub>a-h</sub> and IV <sub>a-h</sub> in ethanol.....   | 52  |
| b- Electronic absorption spectra of mono azo and bisazo compounds based on 2,3-dihydroxy naphthalene nucleus (II <sub>a-h</sub> and V <sub>a-h</sub> in ethanol.....   | 56  |
| c- Electronic absorption spectra of mono azo and bisazo compounds based on 1,5-dihydroxy naphthalene nucleus (III <sub>a-h</sub> and VI <sub>a-h</sub> in ethanol..... | 58  |
| d- Effect of substituent.....                                                                                                                                          | 61  |
| f- Effect of solvents on the electronic absorption spectra of the azo compounds.....                                                                                   | 63  |
| B-Infrared spectra .....                                                                                                                                        | 68  |
| C-<sup>1</sup>H-NMR Spectra .....                                                                                                                               | 72  |
| 3.2.Studies on the Solid Complexes .....                                                                                                                        | 77  |
| (1)Conductimetric titration.....                                                                                                                                       | 77  |
| (2)Elemental analysis.....                                                                                                                                             | 80  |
| (3)Molar conductivities of metal complexes.....                                                                                                                        | 80  |
| (4)Thermogravimetric and differential thermal analysis of metal chelates.....                                                                                          | 81  |
| (5) Infrared absorption spectra of metal chelates.....                                                                                                                 | 83  |
| (6) Electronic spectra and magnetic properties.....                                                                                                                    | 91  |
| Theory .....                                                                                                                                                    | 91  |
| Electronic spectra and magnetic properties of investigated solid complexes .....                                                                                | 95  |
| 3.3.Voltammetric Studies .....                                                                                                                                  | 118 |
| 3.3.1.DC-Polarographic Measurements .....                                                                                                                       | 118 |
| (i) Current-potential curves.....                                                                                                                                      | 118 |

|                                                                                                                                                                       |            |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------|
| (ii) Effect of pressure at mercury head.....                                                                                                                          | 119        |
| (iii) Analysis of polarographic waves.....                                                                                                                            | 120        |
| (iv) Half-wave potential-pH curves .....                                                                                                                              | 121        |
| 3.3.2. Cyclic Voltammetry .....                                                                                                                                | 123 |
| 3.3.3. Cyclic voltammetric behaviour of monoazo and bisazocompounds derived from 2,3 dihydroxy naphthalene inethanolic-aqueous buffer solutions..... | 126 |
| 3.3.4. Substituent Effects.....                                                                                                                                | 128 |
| 3.3.5. Determination of the total numbers of electron .....                                                                                                    | 133 |
| 3.3.6. Electrode Reaction Mechanism for Monoazo and BisazoCompounds.....                                                                                  | 137 |
| REFERENCES.....                                                                                                                                                | 143 |
| Arabic Summary.....                                                                                                                                            |            |