
An evaluative study of specilzed in service teachers of english in classroom converation shills

the purpose of this study is to evaluate the english teacher,s classroom conversation skills in preparatory stage. the study was conducted in benha directorate.conversation is a form of language that has special characteristics such as : short answers ; simple language ; automatic and pragmatic exchanges. it is atow way process between aspeaker and listener. it is asocial and communicative behaviour which differs from other sorts of spoken language such as speech and dialogue.